

Logic Model for the UNM Evaluation Lab

INPUTS		ACTIVITIES	OUTPUTS	OUTCOMES
				Short Term	Long Term
Director / Instructor Associate director Team leads Senior Fellows	Students & Team Leads 	Classroom training and practicum for current students Former students serve as Senior Fellows Team Leads provide mentorship All participate in Learning Community	Evaluation Plan Evaluation Report Project poster Evaluation of Evaluation Lab	Students and Senior Fellows acquire program evaluation skills. Students and Senior Fellows acquire team skills. Students and Senior Fellows adopt and promote a participatory approach.	Students who complete the course and continue as senior fellows become effective program evaluators.
Students Guest faculty and community speakers			Evaluation teams formed Evaluation projects Capacity building	Meetings Project implementation Data collection Data analysis	Increased capacity to conduct evaluations Increased understanding and appreciation of organization's mission, logic model, theory of change, and program activities
Organization directors and staff UNM administrative and instructional support Fees Grants	Nonprofit Organizations	Collaborate with student teams to plan and implement evaluation activities Annual Workshop	Designated evaluation coordinator Participation in planning and implementing evaluation activities	Organizations use evaluation results to make changes in data collection, programming, procedures Organizations leverage Evaluation Lab collaboration in grants Organization staff acquire program evaluation skills	Organizations prioritize mission time and evaluation Organizations integrate evaluation into their operations Organizations collect appropriate data to measure what matters to them Organizations use data in decision making
		Training events Summer Institute & Learning Community Advisory Council	Attendance at Advisory Council meetings Participation in Summer Institute Participation in Learning Community	Peer support among organizations' leadership.	Organizations work together to develop systemic solutions to program evaluation needs, including the ability to track long-term outcomes of program participants in state administrative data and data warehousing.

IMPACT: Increased capacity to conduct program evaluation in New Mexico.